HONORARY DEGREE

John Bruce Pitner Doctorate of Humanities

Dr. John B Pitner's dedication and innovation in agricultural research have touched lives all over the world. By working to improve the quality and productivity of crops worldwide, he has made an enduring impact.

Dr. Pitner spent 32 years working for Clemson University, first as chair of the Department of Agronomy and Soils, then as director of the Clemson Pee Dee Research and Education Center in Florence.

After receiving a Ph.D. in soils chemistry from the University of Wisconsin, Dr. Pitner began his career as an agronomist at Mississippi State University. He was in charge of the soil-fertility and plant-nutrition programs for all crops in the Mississippi Delta. In 1947, he was chosen by The Rockefeller Foundation as the soils scientist to join four select agricultural scientists in plant pathology, genetics and entomology to form a team for the Mexican Agricultural Program. This research group was formed to investigate and develop plant production practices to increase the food harvest of corn, wheat and beans. Dr. Pitner's research highlighted the key role played by fertilizer and its optimized use in increasing crop productivity. He trained 30 Mexican and South American agronomists to continue this program.

As director of the Clemson Pee Dee Research and Education Center, Dr. Pitner conducted research programs focusing on crops such as cotton, corn, soybeans, turfgrasses and tobacco. His paramount concern was the conservation of soils and water, and he championed a multidisciplinary approach to crop research.

His work in combining expertise in diverse agricultural fields produced results much more effectively and efficiently than the methods used at the time. The data from these studies facilitated better herbicide performance, superior plant varieties, greater insect control and improved plant nutrition. Dr. Pitner's accomplishments have been very valuable to agriculture, especially in the Southeast. He is co-inventor of a mechanical tobacco harvester that brought machine harvesting to the small farmer. His involvement in basic research produced recommendations that led to the eradication of the cotton boll weevil, which was introduced to the United States in 1892 and was one of the most damaging crop pests in the history of crop production.

Dr. Pitner was instrumental in selecting, planning and overseeing construction of the 2,297-acre Clemson Pee Dee Research and Education Center. This center is a testimony to the importance of the future of agriculture in the state and a reflection of the University's ongoing commitment to high-quality agricultural research.

In recognition of his commitment to improving the quality of agriculture in the Pee Dee Region, Francis Marion University awarded him the honorary degree, Doctor of Humanities, in 1984. Dr. Pitner continued to support and provide expertise to the Clemson Pee Dee Research and Education Center's programs after his retirement. His achievements were recognized by Clemson University in 1999 when the center's administration building was named the John B Pitner Center.

Clemson University holds John Pitner's remarkable life of service and his support of and commitment to the people of South Carolina in the highest regard. It is with great honor and pleasure that we recognize John Bruce Pitner with the honorary degree, Doctorate of Humanities.

HONORARY DEGREE

Hansjörg Wyss Doctorate of Engineering

Hansjörg Wyss has spent his entire life working to improve the quality of life for future generations. Whether his devotion and passion were directed at helping heal orthopedic patients or looking to protect and preserve the environment, Wyss' efforts have benefited us all.

For more than 30 years, Wyss has led Synthes Inc., a global medical device company whose surgical instruments and implants have revolutionized the way surgeons treat the traumas that afflict the human skeleton. Wyss built the company into a $3.2 billion organization with more than 10,000 employees worldwide.

He became president of Synthes in 1977. Until that point, the company's internal plates, screws and surgical tools for broken bones had been produced in Switzerland. Wyss undertook a vigorous change of direction, first building the company's sales force and establishing training courses in the United States for surgeons interested in learning the new techniques for bone fixation. He also led the firm's global expansion by acquiring the two other companies that were selling identical products to the rest of the world.

Unlike the use of casts and traction, internal fixation helps the bone heal more quickly, with better long-term results. Wyss maintains an active interest in product development. Additionally, his desire to improve medical practice is evident in the fact that the AO/ASIF Foundation, a nonprofit he co-founded in 1984, is now the largest medical teaching organization in the world.

While Wyss remains chairman of Synthes, earlier this year he stepped down as CEO. He gained more time to devote to his many philanthropic pursuits, such as the environment. The Wyss Foundation, for example, focuses on preserving extraordinary landscapes in the intermountain West and the Colorado Plateau. The foundation has helped preserve nearly five million acres of U.S. wilderness. Wyss also serves on the boards of The Wilderness Society, the Southern Utah Wilderness Alliance, the Grand Canyon Trust and the Center for American Progress, as well as the Board of Dean's Advisors for Harvard Business School.

Planning is also under way to launch the National Conservation System Foundation, which will devise sustainable resource management plans for more than 40 million acres of land overseen by the U.S. Bureau of Land Management. It is his hope and belief that this will have the same impact as the National Park System.

In October of last year, Wyss' $125 million gift to Harvard University created the Hansjörg Wyss Institute for Biologically Inspired Engineering. Investigators there will work to discover the engineering principles that nature uses to build living things and use this knowledge to create biologically inspired materials, devices and control technologies to address unmet medical needs worldwide and bring about a more sustainable world. Wyss' gift is the largest individual gift in Harvard's history.

At Clemson, Wyss created the Hansjörg Wyss Endowed Chair in Regenerative Medicine Endowment in 2006 with a $2 million pledge from the Hansjörg Wyss Medical Foundation. The endowed chair was matched by the state of South Carolina for a total of $4 million. This endowed chair, integrated into the S.C. Regenerative Medicine Research Center of Economic Excellence, is aimed at stimulating the discovery of new therapies for clinical pathology using tissue engineering, biomaterial design, stem cell technology and developmental biology. Addressing the management of orthopedic diseases is a focus area.

Clemson University is honored to acknowledge the eminent achievements of this champion for medical improvements and a sustainable environment. It is a distinct privilege to honor Hansjörg Wyss with the presentation of the honorary degree, Doctorate of Engineering.

THE ACADEMIC PROCESSION

The academic procession is composed of the faculty, staff, officers, trustees and most honored guests of the University. Faculty enter by college and each college is preceded by its marshal, a senior faculty member, with the college baton, described under University Regalia. The college banners are placed on the stage. Each banner is a combination of colors that declare the disciplines taught in that college. These colors, which were established by the American Council on Education, are listed below.

Collegiate faculty follow their marshal in order of academic rank wearing academic costumes of medieval origin. Those who have received their degrees from institutions outside the United States wear costumes specified by the awarding institutions. Academic costumes of faculty whose degrees are from institutions in the United States are specified by a uniform code maintained by the American Council on Education. Caps are black and are usually mortar boards with tassels. Doctors of philosophy wear gold tassels usually of metallic thread; other degrees wear black or discipline colors.

The bachelor's gown is simple and black with long, pointed sleeves. Masters' gowns, also black, are longer than bachelors' gowns. Older gowns have sleeves that terminate at the elbow, while those since 1960 have sleeves extended to the wrist. Doctors' gowns are full, with bell-like sleeves. The front is marked by velvet panels and the sleeves are marked by three velvet bars. While most gowns are black with black velvet, one variation is to replace black velvet with velvet in the discipline color. A second variation is a colored gown usually of the university's colors.

All hoods specify the level of degree, the type of discipline studied and the awarding institution. First, degree level is signified by the size of the hood with bachelors' the smallest, masters' larger and doctors' quite large and of a different shape. Clemson does not award hoods to bachelors. The width of the velvet trim also conveys the degree. Secondly, the degree is indicated by the color of the trim edging the hood to form the throat over the gown. The most frequently seen is dark blue, which designates the Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) degree. Finally, the color of the hood's lining specifies the awarding institution. The colors are displayed in combinations that are drawn from heraldry. Notice that the Clemson University hood is lined with purple through which is an orange chevron (a "V"). Although many combinations are duplicated by dozens of institutions, Clemson is presently the only institution with that registered combination.

The officers, trustees and honored guests wear academic, ecclesiastical or military regalia as set forth by their professions. The president of Clemson University wears a purple gown with four velvet bars piped in gold and the university seal embroidered on the panels. Each trustee wears a similar gown with three velvet bars piped in gold for doctorates and an embroidered palmetto tree on each sleeve for those who do not hold doctorates. Hoods are either from Clemson or from the awarding school. They are preceded by the university marshal. Clad in a gown of office in gold and purple, the marshal wears no hood and bears the university mace. At the ceremony's close, the faculty do not exit as a part of the recessional but are dismissed, along with students and guests, when the marshal leaves the coliseum.

THE UNIVERSITY REGALIA

The university mace is the symbolic representation of the whole of Clemson University and must be present at any convocation where the University, through its delegated members, is acting officially. At any official convocation such as commencement, the university marshal, carrying the mace, precedes the president into the assembly. The mace rests before the president's chair or speaker's stand throughout the ceremony, and its removal from the assembly at the close of a convocation is symbolic of the official withdrawal of the University and, thus, the close of the proceedings.

The decorative design of Clemson's mace is derived from the ceremonial maces carried by heads of the state and church in the Middle Ages. Its basic club-like shape, however, is much more ancient, probably going back to man's prehistory. It is made of walnut wood and silver, with Clemson's seal in gold and the university colors represented by insets of carnelian (orange) and amethyst (purple). Amethyst is also the state stone of South Carolina.

The presidential chain and seal is symbolic of the authority vested in the office of president by the governing body of the University. Only the university president may wear it, and while wearing it, he speaks for the whole body of the institution. Clemson's chain and seal are made of silver and gold, and carnelian and amethyst.

The batons of the college marshals also descend from medieval "staves of office," which were carried by the senior members of departments of state or church. They display the university seal and the symbolic color of the discipline to which the college belongs. Clemson's batons are made of walnut wood and silver with the various disciplines inset with enamel.

The Clemson University regalia were designed and executed by Mr. Robert Ebendorf. Mr. Ebendorf is twice winner of the Tiffany Award and one of the most acclaimed goldsmiths of our era. The enamel plaques for the batons were executed by the late Professor Marshall C Bell, and the lapidary work was executed by the late Mr. C C Wilson of Clemson University.

*Magna cum laude: A grade-point ratio of 3.70 to 3.89

Summa cum laude: A grade-point ratio of 3.90 to 4.00

†Calhoun Honors College: The graduates so designated in the printed graduation program have completed an enriched program of study through the Calhoun Honors College. To earn this distinction, students must maintain an overall grade-point ratio of 3.40 or higher and complete the requirements of General Honors and/or Departmental Honors. Students who have earned Departmental Honors appear in the line of march wearing the Calhoun Honors College Medallion on an orange and purple ribbon. This medallion is made possible by an endowment established by Mrs. Katherine Inabinet Vickery of Columbia, South Carolina, to honor the memory of her husband and Clemson graduate, the late B C Inabinet.

Students wearing the white stoles over their gowns are graduating with a 3.00 or better grade-point average. Those who are members of university recognized honorary societies may have the names of those societies embroidered on one side of the stole with the university seal embroidered on the other side.

AWARDS

NORRIS MEDAL

First awarded at Clemson University in 1908, the Norris Medal was established under the terms of the will of the Honorable D K Norris, a life trustee of this institution. The medal is given each year to the graduating student who, on the basis of exceptional scholastic achievement and leadership ability, is judged by the University Scholarships and Awards Committee to be the best all-around student.

All recipients of the Norris Medal have their names affixed to a bronze plaque mounted in the Hendrix Student Center.

Recipient of the Norris Medal

HISTORICAL STATEMENT

Clemson University is named for Thomas Green Clemson (1807–1888), who left the bulk of his estate to the state of South Carolina for the founding of the institution.

Thomas Clemson was born in Philadelphia in 1807 and educated at the Royal School of Mines in Paris (1828–1832). His early profession was that of a mining engineer; however, circumstances diverted his interests into politics and the life of a southern planter, and he soon became an enthusiastic advocate of scientific agriculture. He had a career as a diplomat (chargé d'affaires to Belgium, 1844–1852) and served as the first superintendent of agricultural affairs in Washington (1860). As a scientist he published numerous articles in the fields of mining, chemistry and agriculture. His varied activities included his assistance in the founding of the Maryland Agricultural College, his support of the Morrill Act, his leadership in South Carolina after the Civil War, and his part in founding Clemson University.

Thomas Clemson was the son-in-law of John C Calhoun, a South Carolina political figure of national importance during the first half of the nineteenth century. Mr. Calhoun's home, Fort Hill, is preserved on the Clemson campus as a national shrine.

The academic program at Clemson College began in 1893 with an enrollment of 446. The first "college prospectus" announced only two four-year curricula, supplemented by two two-year preparatory courses. Today the University has six major academic units. These are the College of Agriculture, Forestry and Life Sciences; the College of Architecture, Arts and Humanities; the College of Business and Behavioral Science; the College of Engineering and Science; the College of Health, Education and Human Development; and the Graduate School.

Clemson University is accredited by the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools to award the bachelor's, master's, education specialist, and doctoral degrees. Contact the Commission on Colleges at 1866 Southern Lane, Decatur, GA 30033-4097 or call at 404-679-4500 for questions about the accreditation of Clemson University.

Curricula are accredited by AACSB International (Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business), Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology, American Council for Construction Education, American Dietetic Association (CADE), American Society of Landscape Architects, Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education (CCNE), Council for Accreditation of Counseling and Related Education Programs (CACREP), National Architectural Accrediting Board, National Association of Schools of Art and Design, National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education, NRPA/AALR Council on Accreditation, Planning Accreditation Board, and Society of American Foresters. Documentation of accreditation is available in the college deans' offices.

Clemson is a land-grant institution. As such, it is engaged not only in its primary academic program, but does extensive research at the main campus and at five agricultural experiment stations located in the state. The University is also heavily committed to a varied program of public service, including the work of agricultural extension, which has professional personnel located in each of the state's counties.

CLEMSON ALMA MATER

Farmer and McGarity/arr. Freeman

Where the Blue Ridge yawns its greatness,
Where the Tigers play;

Here the sons of dear old Clemson
Reign supreme always.

Chorus

Dear old Clemson, we will triumph
And with all our might,

That the Tiger's roar may echo
O'er the mountain height.

We will dream of greater conquests,
For our past is grand,

And her sons have fought and conquered
Every foreign land.

Where the mountains smile in grandeur
O'er the hill and dale.

Here the Tiger lair is nestling
Swept by storm and gale.

We are brothers strong in manhood,
For we work and strive;

And our alma mater reigneth
Ever in our lives.
